A diagram consisting of several black lines on a white background. It features a vertical line on the left. From its top, a horizontal line extends to the right. From its bottom, another horizontal line extends to the right. Two other lines, one above and one below the first pair, also extend from the vertical line to the right. These four lines (the vertical line and the three extending lines) all intersect at a single point on the right side. A short vertical line segment connects the top intersection point to the bottom intersection point.
